EXECUTIVE SUMMIT
JANUARY 29-31, 2019
WASHINGTON, DC

WASHINGTON, DC (October 4, 2018) — With a reception and dinner on Tuesday, January 29, 2019, the National Association of Wholesaler-Distributors (NAW) convenes its highly anticipated Executive Summit in Washington, DC, to help best-in-class wholesaler-distributors from diverse wholesale distribution lines of trade exchange ideas and best practices with other industry leaders with whom they don’t compete. The event concludes Thursday afternoon, January 31. All the details are here: www.naw.org/es19.

The NAW 2019 Executive Summit’s theme is “DISRUPT YOURSELF!” and it is geared to helping distributors rethink, reimagine, reinvent and disrupt their businesses and drive their companies forward in 2019!

Guided by a dynamic program and speakers, event participants will look across key functional areas and gain creative insights and new knowledge that will help them as they move from the traditional status quo to transformational leadership. The goal is for wholesaler-distributors to leave the NAW

Executive Summit exhilarated with inspiring leadership takeaways that they'll be able to immediately brainstorm with their management teams and put into action at their companies. Added to that, attendees will experience some of the best business networking in the industry throughout their two-and-one-half days together. They'll add their own perspectives to the program during the highly rated small-group discussion roundtables where they'll network with peers who aren't their competitors and find out what's working and what isn't in distribution today.

Event participants who register and book their rooms at the Fairmont Washington, DC hotel by Friday, December 15, will receive a $100 room credit at check-in. More details, including how to register, are available at www.naw.org/es19.
